

Formby Uke 3A

Formby Uke 3A was founded by Kevin Bargaen. His sad and unexpected death left the Group without a leader, but not for long. Phil Lowe, until then a member of the Group, accepted the role of Group Leader. His expertise and enthusiasm enabled the group, made up of beginners and experienced players/singers, to make excellent progress.

Instead of 1 hour every 2 weeks, by "union" agreement, the members demanded to meet every Saturday morning from 10:00am to 11:30am. This was agreed without having to strike. Phil appreciates the enthusiasm of the group which now includes more than 20 players/singers.

Their repertoire is quite varied and entertaining. The Group will be entertaining in the arena at the Ainsdale Show on the 1st July; at St Peters Woolton as part of a Beatles Week on Wednesday 5th July; at the Gild Hall on the evening of Wednesday 4th October.

Diane Vernon acts as Lead Conductor. Pat Harwood is Administrative Assistant. Please telephone Pat on 877047 if you are interested in join, or inviting us to play for you.

Queensway

Have you ever questioned how the authorities reduced the number of pedestrians walking through the Queensway Tunnel; why the air in the tunnels is less polluted than it used to be; where the emergency exit doors under the Mersey lead to; why there are so many bends in the Queensway? These were just some of the questions answered when Local History Group 6 went on their recent and excellent Mersey Tunnel guided tour.

Our guides, Alison and Billy, met us at the iconic tunnel tower on George's Dockway. The Liverpool architect, Herbert Rowse, was responsible for designing the Art Deco streamlined square tower, the tunnel control centre, the four tunnel entrances, the tunnel interior, the toll booths and lighting columns. The tower combines the functioning ventilation system and an office block, which was until recently was the HQ of Mersey Tunnels. From an office on the upper floor, the Control Room managed all the traffic flow, ventilation and drainage of the "old" Queensway and "new" Kingsway Tunnels. Although used until only a few months back, the abandoned control room is reminiscent of a 60's sci-fi film with banks of enormous panels overloaded with huge dials and the occasional Bakelite telephone. The room was abandoned when command moved to a nearby office where security is so high that only a handful of people have access to it; certainly no U3A members. As we descended to the subterranean world of Liverpool, we entered into what had previously been George's Dock. An old displayed photograph showed the abandoned dock shortly after the completion of the Port of Liverpool Building, but before the construction of the Liver and Cunard Buildings. By the time the photograph had been taken, the 2 sides of the dock had been connected by an arched bridge, which is now Brunswick Street, and a solid bridge, which is now Water Street. Below the latter, a massive water tank was constructed as an emergency store for the Liverpool Fire Services. Water is still present in the basement of the building as the water table had risen following the closure of a number of local industries which had previously extracted groundwater. As a consequence, water constantly seeps from the ground into the tunnels and the tunnels are pumped dry. Our guides were keen to point out that water doesn't leak in from the river! The gigantic, original 1930s fans are switched on should the air quality becomes poor, or an emergency occur. These goliaths are connected to almost invisible vents in the tunnel roof. Two other smaller fans constantly blow fresh air from the Mersey side of the building into the tunnel at road surface level. The movement of traffic forces the polluted air out and it is claimed that following a low point in the 1960's, air quality has gradually improved with cars now being so clean that the extractor fans are rarely needed and that air quality in the tunnel is better than it is in Liverpool City Centre.

We descended deeper under Liverpool and eventually arrived alongside the tunnel roadway, probably giving passing motorists a nasty shock, dressed as we were in our hard hats and high-vis jackets. Whilst Kingsway is a straight-line tunnel, Queensway road has many bends because the City Big Wigs on both sides of the Mersey did not want the road to be dug under their important buildings. Remember, that when Queensway was being planned, there was nothing similar anywhere in the world and Queensway remained the biggest/longest road tunnel for several years and, as a consequence much of the design work was by guesswork! Following the disastrous Mont Blanc Tunnel Fire of 1999, European legislation was passed to make roadway tunnel evacuation procedures more robust and millions of pounds was spent upgrading the refuge points in both Queensway and Kingsway. Just what was done and where are they? Well to find out the answer to this, as well as finding out how the number of pedestrians attempting to walk through the tunnel has been significantly reduced to approximately only 3 per week (walking through the tunnel is illegal), as well as the mystery of the headless woman and the jangling keys, others will have to participate in this worthwhile tour. It would be a shame to spoil Alison's and Billy's wonderful stories.

Moughton Fell

The March Fellwalkers Group, led by Dave Purdy and starting from Horton in Ribblesdale only had 7 walkers this time. The picture is taken at the trig point on the top of Moughton Fell. Unfortunately it coincided with a short sharp shower. Most of the day was fine with shafts of sunlight illuminating the bright green fields and fells and the contrasting white limestone outcrops. We descended from Moughton into Crummackdale, finding an idyllic place for lunch by a brook with two stone bridges where sheep were washed in days of yore, then a return via Sulber Nick.

Marcia Thompson

Scotland Road Landmark

Local History Group 5 enjoyed a visit to St Anthony of Egypt Catholic Church on Scotland Road. It is interesting to note that although the church is well known as being located just before the access to the Mersey Tunnel, it hasn't necessarily registered as the remarkable edifice that it undoubtedly is.

On our arrival, we were met by the church Archivist, Michael O'Neill, who gave us a talk on the history of the church, took us on a guided tour of the church and the atmospheric crypt, and delighted us by playing the organ.

In 1804, Fr. Jean-Baptiste Antoinet Geradot, a French émigré priest, purchased a site on Scotland Road between Dryden Street and Bevington Street, where he built the first church and presbytery of St Anthony. This church became known as the "French Chapel". The church was soon found to be too small for the congregation and so an open competition was held in 1832 for the design of a new church at its present location between Chapel Gardens and Newsham Street.

The new church was opened the following year and was designed to seat 1,700 people, with the stipulation that all should have an unobstructed view of the altar. Consequently, the nave is a single unaisled space, with a tremendous roof span. The weight of the roof is supported by the ovule arches in the crypt, where the brick vaults provide the final resting places for over a thousand people, who were buried before the Act of 1859 which forbade church burials within town boundaries. With permission, cremated ashes can be still interred in the vaults.

The cost of the church, in excess of £12,000, was defrayed to some degree by the sale of burial vaults and there are a number of individual vaults that refer to deaths during the typhus and cholera epidemics of 1847, when the City lost 10% of its population in the calendar year.

Rob Dodd

Briars Hall

On a dreary, damp day in late February, just before storm Doris, the Outings Group boarded our coach at Cross Green. By eleven o'clock we were all aboard and headed for the heart of Lancashire, the far side of Ormskirk.

We took the scenic route through twisting, turning, country roads, thus avoiding boring motorways and main roads. Even in the rain the countryside was beautiful. It was possible to spot early signs of Spring, livestock in the fields, buds on hedgerows, and, occasionally a trace of blossom on a few trees.

Briars Hall was an eighteenth century Manor House and is now a very successful country hotel. As well as catering for guests on short breaks, the hotel provides food and entertainment for large and small groups. These are usually afternoon events, from noon to about 4pm. The Hall is set in its own grounds at the end of a pleasant driveway. It is a very popular choice for weddings, birthdays, conferences and the like because of its surroundings.

The group was there for lunch and an afternoon of fun and entertainment and we were not disappointed. Ann has an incredible talent for providing just the right outing as a pick-me-up after the busy excitement of Christmas has long faded. What could be better on a miserable February day than a hearty 3-course meal, free Bingo, followed by music, singing and dancing? A really great way to forget the wintry weather for a while.

On a personal note, I was pleased that the meal was served at round tables of eight. Conversation is easier and friendlier this way. Long, extended tables look elegant but tend to make conversation difficult with anyone but your neighbour.

Tony Ravel was our entertainer. He is a popular compère, vocalist and impressionist and we were treated to all of these skills during the afternoon. We heard tributes to many of the famous singers like, Sinatra, Matt Monroe, Nat King Cole, Elvis and there was even a snatch of Ken Dodd in Italian. The choice of music was tailored to suit all tastes. Some of us found a scrap of after lunch energy to take to the sparkly dance floor!

To round off a splendid afternoon, all four games of Bingo were won by members of our U3A group. Ann certainly has the magic touch! If you haven't yet been on one of her well organised outings, don't hesitate, come and prepare to enjoy yourself.

Formby U3A Draft Minutes Of The 2017 AGM
Held In Holy Trinity Hall On 8th March 2017

1 Apologies for Absence: Mr and Mrs Noel Blundell, Roger Hills.

2 Minutes of 2016 AGM: Draft Minutes have been published in the April 2016 and the January 2017 Newsletters and were available at the meeting. There were no comments from the floor and the Minutes were approved nem con by a show of hands and were signed by Glyn Pike as Chairman.

3 Matters Arising from the Minutes: Suggestions from the floor during AOB that the hearing loop be attended to and additional stage lighting be purchased had been carried through by Committee.

4 2016 Annual Report: The Chairman gave his report which was approved nem con by applause:-

I begin this report by thanking the previous Chairman Andrew Hoare and his committee for handing over a "well oiled machine". Their work over the last few years had provided a strong platform for the future.

Our relatively new committee has met on a monthly basis as required and has dealt with the matters that were placed before it. We listened to the comments at last year's AGM in connection with speakers and Val Tibbits and Rosemary Thomas have worked hard to provide interesting speakers for the current year. The attendances at the monthly meetings seems to suggest that their work has been worthwhile.

Our finances under the stewardship of David Manning-Fox are in good order as you will learn later when you will be asked to approve the financial report.

We continue to increase membership on a monthly basis and Ann Gunstone who beavers away quietly has been a great asset in this capacity.

There are currently approximately 130 groups in Formby U3A covering 60 activities and Linda McAuley is available to act on any suggestion you have for new groups to be formed. The website is always a valuable assistance to anyone seeking information about our U3A and the group status in particular. Noel Blundell acts swiftly to keep the information as up to date as possible

Committee members Ann Blackman and Linda Howard continue to work with the Outings and Theatre groups and are available at the monthly workshop meetings to assist with your enquiries.

The new format for the Christmas show proved to be popular with those members who bought tickets and even the new venue with its improved stage and facilities won approval from those attending. Our thanks go to Susan Birchall for producing the show.

Secretary Jack Ashworth has kept the committee fully informed of the matters discussed at meetings although he tells me that there is a greater power than he when it comes to matters with the computer ensuring minutes arrive at their correct destination. Jack is vacating the position at next year's AGM and I therefore asking for a volunteer to take his place. It would be useful if you would contact Jack to find out what is required of this position.

We are also losing the services of David Bosworth whose ability to get to the heart of any matter being discussed will be sorely missed. Our data manager has also decided to retire and we thank David and Len for their services to our organisation.

Len's position will be taken up by Tony Bonney.

After many years of service Tim Chrimes is relinquishing the role of sound engineer for our monthly meetings. I would ask anyone who is interested in succeeding him to contact me or any committee member.

On your behalf I thank the committee for their enthusiasm and service to Formby U3A, their dedication has allowed an already successful organisation to flourish.

I was recently asked to attend a meeting for Formby residents with hearing difficulties to inform them of our activities and to this end handed out copies of our newsletter. One gentleman who informed me that he was for many years in the printing business remarked that the newsletter that I handed to those present was one of the best he had ever seen, commenting that it was a thoroughly professional job. We have Dave Goodwill to thank for producing our newsletter on a monthly basis. He often informs us that he is only able to print what is sent to him and therefore encourages us all to write about our activities and submit the articles for inclusion in the newsletter. On your behalf I thank David for his dedication and service to Formby U3A.

Our organisation is entirely dependent on our Group Leaders who act selflessly for the benefit of others. I offer them thanks for their work in the past and hope they continue to lead their groups in the future.

I would also like to thank Pat McCracken and her team of helpers who provide tea and coffee for the Thursday workshop meetings, many members benefit from their dedication.

You may rest assured that the current committee will continue to work on your behalf and only ask that at the end of their term of office others do the same for them.

5 Treasurer's Report: Copies of the Accounts for the year ended 31st December 2016 were available to all who attended. The Treasurer gave a detailed resume of the entries, highlighting the fact that income had been maintained and explaining the main item of expenditure, the capitation fee paid to our umbrella body Third Age Trust, at £3.50 per member. The audited accounts showed a healthy balance at the year end of almost £16,000 and it was proposed by Andrew Hoare that they be accepted, seconded by Barry Lovius, approved nem con by a show of hands. The Treasurer then went on to explain his Budget for 2017 and mentioned particularly the capitation fee which reflected the number of members as at 31st October 2016, the entry 'hire of hall/church' referring to Committee's so far unsuccessful efforts to use the Church, thus avoiding the laborious setting up and re-stacking of chairs. The cost of the Group Leaders' Meeting resulted from an annual event intended to show Formby U3A's appreciation of the invaluable work done by Group Leaders throughout the year. All this resulted in a projected deficit in excess of £3,000 which could be readily absorbed by accumulated funds.

6 Appointment of Auditor: The Treasurer thanked Alan Thomas for his exemplary work. Alan had agreed to continue and his appointment was confirmed nem con.

7 Election of Trustees: Members of Committee who had agreed to stand for re-election were named in the Agenda. The Chairman asked for volunteers from the floor to contest any of these positions or fill the vacancies of Vice Chairman and two non-officer positions. No-one came forward and consequently, there was only one nomination for each role so all were approved en bloc by a show of hands.

He was assured this request would be considered at the next Committee meeting.

Skipton Canal Cruise

St Patrick's Day marked my first venture with the U3A outings group. I arrived at Cross Green in good time to find that members of the U3A arrive early and, despite a cool day with rain and wind forecast for Yorkshire, they were all in good spirits.

During our journey along the M58 Ann reminded us of the itinerary for the day and then the good humoured chat continued until we reached our first stop at Huntley's County Stores. After coffee we had plenty of time to view the wide variety of goods on sale and several of us did not resist temptation.

On reaching Skipton we transferred immediately to the Dalesman, a fifty seat narrowboat which was refurbished in 1994 and dedicated to William B. Hughes, a Mersey ferryman who lived from 1910–93. This seemed to be a good omen as we set sail along the Leeds - Liverpool canal. The weather had improved and the sun tried to shine during our cruise. The scenery was beautiful, even with the grey skies and we passed several landmarks including a memorial to Polish airmen from WW2 and a mill at Bradley. At Farnhill, about 3 miles from Skipton, we started our return journey. We had also enjoyed a two course lunch during our three hour cruise. This had been a relaxing way to view the Yorkshire Dales. We had a further hour and a half to enjoy Skipton but unfortunately the rain returned and most of us took the opportunity to indulge in a little more retail therapy.

I can thoroughly recommend the outings on offer and am looking forward to my next one. Many thanks to Ann and her helpers for organising these experiences.
